SAFETY @ recROC

When you are climbing, be aware of your environment. Check for other climbers who might be in the path you intend to take before you begin. To remain aware, refrain from using headphones while climbing. Never sit or stand below a climber unless you are spotting them.

When you reach the top of a problem either safely top out over the wall onto the mezzanine or make an attempt to down-climb before jumping off to prevent injury. Keep the pads free of personal belongings to ensure no one will fall or injure themselves.

When falling, be sure to never lock up your knees. Let your body roll back to absorb the shock. Avoid trying to catch yourself with your arms.

Please be courteous when climbing with others, practice good climbing etiquette by paying attention to the rotation of climbers on the wall. Keep in mind that our policies do require you to wear appropriate clothing and footwear at all times. Horseplay or an unsafe disregard for safety and conduct rules will not be tolerated.

Similar principles apply to obstacle training. Make sure your path is free of other participants or objects before beginning or continuing. Be respectful of others using the obstacles. Do not stand under obstacles if you are not using them, and never walk under someone who is using an obstacle.

PARENTS/GUARDIANS: You must directly supervise all children under the age of 14 at all times. Children under 8 are not allowed on the obstacle course, unless they are working with a recROC instructor or have been cleared by certified staff.

Bouldering Wall

Bouldering continues to grow in popularity and many people enjoy it because it gives them a great sense of achievement. Bouldering is a form of climbing practiced on small rocks and boulders requiring problem solving skills. The activity is incredibly physical and uses many muscle groups, both in the upper and lower body. Fingers, arm, back, and shoulders as well as abdominal muscles all get exercised. Regular climbing improves stamina and endurance as well as muscle strength. All the reaching and stretching improves flexibility and agility. Pre-planning routes and mental preparation are important to master this activity.

Getting Started with Bouldering

Learn the basics of bouldering. Scramblers for ages 6 to 13 or Bouldering Basics for ages 14+ are offered. Registration is required. Personal boulder training is also available.

Bouldering routes, called “problems” begin at the taped hold. Next to this hold you will see a card with the letter V followed by a number. The number notes the difficulty of the problem. Starting with V0 as the easiest, problems will increase in difficulty with each number grade. Your goal is to start at the beginning and make your way along the problem to the top, only using same-colored holds for your hands and feet as you go. As mentioned above, when you reach the top, you can either top out the problem or safely down climb.

OBSTACLE COURSE

Obstacle course training will prepare participants for races and raise fitness levels. The obstacles are arranged to balance out the fatigue as you move safely through them. The course will be usable for both the beginner and the experienced individual.
